Preface

Prior to 1893 the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania did not require that births occurring within the state be recorded. While several of the larger cities (Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton, and Erie, for example) had developed and been using their own systems for some time, many births in other areas of the state were recorded only in such things as local newspapers, church records and/or family bibles.

The first attempt by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to require counties to record births in a standardized format occurred in 1885 with passage of Act 37, An Act to establish a State Board of Health [and Bureau of Vital Statistics] for the better protection of life and health, and to prevent the spread of contagious and infectious diseases in this Commonwealth. Section seven of the act granted the State Board “general supervision of the registration of births, marriages, and deaths...and [authority] to prepare the necessary methods, forms and blanks for obtaining and preserving such records, and to insure the faithful registration of the same in the several counties and in the Central Bureau of Vital Statistics at the Capitol of the State.”

Although Act 37 granted authority to the newly created State Board of Health to establish and oversee a system that would ensure the proper registration of births and transmission of records to a centralized location at the state Capitol, no further action occurred until 1893 with passage of Act 281, Ac Act To provide for the registration of births and deaths in the several counties of the Commonwealth. This act (section 1) placed responsibility for recording births, maintaining records, and transmitting data to the state Bureau of Vital Statistics on the Clerk of the Orphans’ Court of each county. The actual recording of data (section 2) was to be gathered by township, borough, and ward assessors under the direction of the Court. The act (section 1) also specified that the following information be collected: name, sex and color of the child, full names of father and mother, with their residence, occupation of the father, date and place of birth, with street and number, when possible, and the date of making the record. An alphabetical listing of all births was to be maintained and open, without charge, to inspection by physicians, clergymen, and attorneys-at-law. Parents, guardians, physicians, and other persons with knowledge of a birth (e.g., a midwife) were made responsible for supplying required information to the appropriate assessor. Section two also specified that assessors were to make semi-annual reports to the Orphans’ Court along with oath of due diligence and accuracy of the information forwarded. Persons providing false information to assessors were subject to fines of ten dollars per offense. Section four specified that the provisions of the act would not affect cities where a system for the registration of births had already been established.

Unfortunately, Act 281 did not provide any guidelines to the Orphans’ Court to assist in the task of selecting assessors or specify any penalties for their non-compliance to the requirement that accurate and/or truthful data be submitted. In addition, literacy was not specified as a requirement for appointment to the position of assessor. As a result, information supplied to the Clerk of an Orphans’ Court often varied wildly both in terms of accuracy and veracity from township, to borough, to ward. This was particularly true in Columbia County where assessors occasionally credited different women as being the mothers of the same set of twins. Fathers of twins were also reported as living in different townships at the same time. It was also not uncommon to find that the same child was reported to have been born in different townships and that the same woman had given birth to children two or three times in a single year.

Finally, although Act 37 passed in 1885 had created a Bureau of Vital Statistics and stipulated that data relating to births be transmitted to the state Capitol, Act 281 did not require that the data be forwarded to the Bureau. As a result, most information collected during the years 1893 and 1905 remained locked away in county courthouses.

In an attempt to ensure that birth information was collected in a standardized format across the state as well as to mandate its delivery to Harrisburg, the General Assembly in 1905 passed Act 221, An Act to provide for the immediate registration of all births and deaths throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by means of certificates of births and deaths, and burial or removal permits, requiring prompt returns to the Central Bureau of Vital Statistics...and to ensure the thorough organization and efficiency of the registration of vital statistics...as provided in section seven of "An Act to establish a State Board of Health for the better protection of life and health, and to prevent the spread of contagious and infectious diseases..." approved June third, eighteen hundred and eighty-five; and making an appropriation for establishing and maintaining such a Bureau, and providing certain penalties," Approved May 1, 1905.

Section twelve of Act 221 mandated that births be recorded and that the data relative to that birth be immediately transmitted to the central Bureau of Vital Statistics. Section fourteen specified that the following information be collected: (a) place of birth, including county, township, village or city; (b) full name of child, if available at time of birth; (c) sex; (d) whether single or multiple birth; (e) marital status of parents; (f) full name of father; (g) residence of father; (h) color or race of father; (i) birthplace of father' (j) age of father at last birthday; (k) occupation of father; (l) maiden name of mother, in full; (m) Residence of mother; (n) color or race of mother; (o) birthplace of mother; (p) age of mother at last birthday; (q) occupation of mother; (r) number of children of this mother, and number of children of this mother still living; (s) statement of attending physician or midwife; and (t) the exact date of filing in office of local registrar.

Section fourteen of the act also specified that all certificates "shall be written legibly, in unfading ink; and no certificate shall be held to be complete and correct that does not supply all of the items of information called for...or satisfactorily account for their omission." Despite admonitions that information forwarded to Harrisburg be as complete and accurate as possible, certificates reaching the Bureau of Vital Statistics frequently contained of sorts of errors. Although the term of office for local registrars was, by statute, four years, holders of the office often changed at a much more rapid pace. Each change of office brought individuals with different levels of diligence, competence, enthusiasm, literacy, and handwriting skills. Even the more frequent use of the typewriter to record information did not stem the tide of creative spelling.

Families having similar, but different, surnames, as well as names of foreign born parents, seemed to be particularly vexing for some registrars. In one not untypical case, a father's correct surname Tilmont Tilmont was spelled Tilmont, Tillman, Tilman, and Tilmond , while his wife's given name was cited as Lena, Laney, Learma, Lana, and Lanie. In addition, little effort appears to have been given to verifying the correct form of a father's name. Sometimes a father's full name was given, sometimes only his surname and initials, and other times his surname with first and middle names inverted. For the purposes of this index, a diligent effort has been made to verify the correct surname of each child. Given names, however, have not been altered since there is no way to determine whether the form shown is what the parents intended.

Note on Sources

Birth registration lists. Pursuant to provisions of Act 281 passed by the General Assembly in 1893 these lists were compiled by specially appointed assessors and submitted on an annual basis to the county Orphans' Court. Initially, Columbia County was divided, primarily on the basis of population, into forty-seven different townships, wards and boroughs. By 1905, the list of areas reporting births had grown to fifty. In 1893, most assessors submitted their reports in December. From 1894 to 1905, however, the lists were usually, though not always, submitted in mid-May. Births reported to the assessors after the filing date usually appeared on the report submitted the following year.

Births were listed on the registration sheets in chronological order as data was received and contained the date the information was recorded, name of the child, sex, color, name of father, name of mother, residence, occupation of father, date of birth, and place of birth. Although some assessors diligently executed their responsibilities under the provisions of Act 281, others seemed less than fully motivated to fulfill the Act's requirement that they verify the accuracy of the data they received. In many instances, they failed to record either the father's full name or mother's maiden name. The given names of father were often noted only by initials or by having first and middle names reversed. Likewise, as noted in the Guide to Data Categories, a mother's given name was often listed in a variety of shortened versions (e.g., Catherine became Cat, Cathy, Katie, Kate, or Catharine, or simply "Mrs. So-and-so").

Despite their shortcomings, the assessor registration lists are the primary source for data relating to births occurring between 1893 and 1905. They contain the most detailed information regarding residence of parents and date and place of birth. Much of this detail was omitted when data was transferred to the card file maintained by the Orphans' Court.

Orphans' Court card file. Section 1 of Act 281 provided that all information relating to births collected be deposited with the county Orphans' Court and that an "alphabetically indexed" master file be maintained and made available free-of-charge to attorneys, physicians, and members of the clergy. Often, however, the information that ultimately found its way into the alphabetical index was in variance to what had actually been deposited. As a result, a not a few discrepancies exist between the assessor lists and the card file. These differences generally fall into three major categories: names, place of birth, and assessor location.

Names: Many children had not been given names at the time the notice of their birth had been given to the assessors. Later, after names had been selected, the card file was altered to reflect the change. In addition, names were occasionally changed legally and this information was also entered onto the person's card. Place of birth: assessor lists almost always cite actual place of birth (street addresses in larger communities; villages or commonly used names in rural areas), while the Orphans' Court card file generally only cites town or township in which birth occurred. Assessor location: assessor locations are identified with complete name of township, ward or borough, while the Orphans' Court card file frequently only identified towns or township without a breakdown as to the exact district of record.

Because the two sources often vary with respect to the information contained in them both should be used concurrently in order to obtain the most complete information possible.

While both the assessor lists and Orphans' Court card file were used to compile the present index, primary reliance was placed on the Orphans' Court card file because of the difficulty of recognizing variations in the names of fathers and mothers as entered on the various assessor lists.

Location of Sources: The original assessor registration lists (ARL) are located at the Columbia County Historical and Genealogical Society (CCHGS), second floor, Bloomsburg Public Library, 225 Market Street, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania 17815. Copies of the ARL are located at the Harvey A. Andruss Library (HAAL) of Bloomsburg University. The original Orphan's Court card file is located at the Office of the Prothonotary, Columbia County; microfilm copies card file can be found at the CCHGS and the HAAL.

Guide To Interpreting Data Categories

Name of Child

The spelling of surnames on the Assessor registration lists and the Orphans' Court card index occasionally varies. This is particularly true with families having similar sounding surnames (e.g., Dietterich, Deitterick, Dietterick, Dietrick, Deitrich) and those having foreign names. An effort has been made to establish the correct form of the name, with see references cited for alternative spellings. However, because of the wide variance in recording surnames, users of the index are encouraged to examine all possible variant spellings.

Given names are cited as they appear on assessor lists and/or card index since it is not known whether parents intended this to be the correct spelling. If the given name varies on the two sources, the most complete form is cited. If the child was stillborn or unnamed at the time of registration, the surname is followed by dashes (e.g., Welliver, -----).

Sex

M (Male), F (Female), U (Undetermined, primarily stillborns)

Color

W (white), N (African-American), U (Undetermined, primarily premature stillborns)

Name of Father

Little effort was apparently made by assessors to ascertain a father's full name. Given names are recorded in a variety of ways (full name, abbreviations, "nicknames," initials, first and middle names reversed). Both surnames and given names occasionally vary on assessor lists. In addition, when birth information from the assessor lists was transferred to the Orphan Court card file typists frequently deviated from what was on the original list. In order to maximize the potential for retrieval, all variant forms of a name have been standardized and converted to the fullest name discovered.

Name of Mother

Despite the provision of Act 281 requiring proper identification of mothers, names were recorded in a variety of ways. Maiden names were rarely, if ever, recorded. Given names were frequently shortened or abbreviated, or replaced by nicknames. Elizabeth, for example, might appear as Eliza, Lizzie, Liz, or Beth; and Catherine, as Catharine, Cat, Katie, Kate, Kathy, or Cathy. In one typical case, Lena, the wife of Joseph Tillmont, was identified five different ways over the course of ten years by the same assessor in the southwest district of Conyngham Township. In addition, in many cases, mothers were merely recorded as being "Mrs. So-and-so." As with fathers, whenever possible, all variant forms of a name have been standardized and converted to the fullest name ascertained.

Residence

Indicates place where family lived at the time of birth, not necessarily the place of birth. Generally, assessor lists give more exact information regarding place of birth. For example, street addresses are cited if birth occurred in Berwick, Bloomsburg, Millville, or Centralia; and name of village or other commonly used name, if in a rural area. The Orphan Court card file usually only cites town or township. If exact place of birth is needed, assessor list should be consulted.

Occupation of Father

Although a wide variety of occupations are cited, the most frequently noted are farmer or laborer.

Date of Birth

Year-Month-Day. In a few cases where the date of birth has been omitted, the date (year) the assessor filed his report with the Orphans' Court has been used.

Assessor Location

Name of township, ward, or borough in which assessor worked. A list of these locations follows this Guide. Data placed on Orphans' Court card file was often abbreviated. The Berwick South West District, for example, may only appear on the card as Berwick. As a result, the original assessor registration lists for all of the various Berwick districts submitted in a given year must be examined if the exact location of a birth is desired.

Source Year

Year in which assessor filed his report with Orphans' Court. In 1893 all lists were filed in December. From 1894-1905 assessor reports were usually filed in mid-May. Births occurring after the May report were reported to the Orphans' Court with following May.
